

Abstract

The present invention is directed to a hand-held power tool handle device with a vibration-shielding unit (10) and a guide device (12) for guiding a motion (26) of a handle element (16) which is movably supported relative to a hand-held power tool body (14).

5

It is provided that the motion (26) is at least substantially along a straight line.

(Figure 2)